

Taking Back Our Lives in the Age of Corporate Dominance

Never before have so many people felt the American Dream crashing down around them. The corporate framework -- which values competition and the bottom line above all else -- keeps people running after an elusive goal and impinges on their personal lives. The authors show how our advertising-driven culture causes material desires to grow with no corresponding increase in personal time or energy to pursue them. These artificially amped-up needs cause a pressure-cooker lifestyle that threatens health and happiness. This book teaches how to find balance by simplifying, paring down on material possessions, and reevaluating corporate careers.

There are already signs that in the near future energy costs will continue to rise. When shopping for a new home, it is imperative that buyers compare homes based on the normal criteria of location, size and functionality along with the homes potential for energy efficiency by concentrating on insulation, type of windows, furnace, roof, age of the structure, type of wiring, type of plumbing, lot grading and the potential to grow your own food should you desire. We can make this process easier for you with our knowledge of the area builders over a long period of time and our training on efficiency and energy efficient products. We can point out periods of rapid growth when homes in our city were not well constructed and were rendered very poor on the scale of energy efficiency. We can point out builders that meet LEED standards or Green standards and have built to the highest levels of efficiency. Quick Search Search Featured Property RE/MAX Chay Realty Inc.
